Training Development

Operating an efficient and effective organization in today's evolving marketplace can be challenging. Sustainability training programs set the foundation for continued innovation and long-term success. Education is vital to the successful integration of sustainability through policies and practices, operations, and product design. Training programs developed internally, without subject expertise, tools and infrastructure, often fail to achieve crucial business goals. Sustainable Solutions Corporation (SSC) utilizes decades of applicable industry knowledge and a strong teaching background to deliver valuable training and education programs to organizations across a wide range of industries.

Sustainable Solutions Corporation collaborates with clients to create sustainability training and education programs designed for maximum retention and participant value. Whether your organization wants to educate employees, clients or suppliers, SSC provides current, practical, and industry-specific training, as well as the tools for immediate integration into your daily operations.

“An investment in education always pays the highest returns.”

—Ben Franklin

“By treating sustainability as a goal today, early movers will develop competencies that rivals will be hard-pressed to match. That competitive advantage will stand them in good stead, because sustainability will always be an integral part of development.”

—Why Sustainability is Now the Key Driver of Innovation,
Harvard Business Review

The Process

Throughout the training development process, SSC communicates extensively with clients to establish the desired goals of the course and then strategically creates content around this framework to ensure comprehensive program success. Our experience with training program design includes:

- Fortune 500 Companies – Employee training focused on integrating sustainability throughout the corporate culture
- Building Owners – Guidelines to create policies and procedures aimed at improving building performance and reducing operating costs
- Education Providers – Modification to existing courses to meet PDH and CEU requirements

Training Development Opportunities

New Course Development

Organizations that invest in education for their clients, employees and suppliers realize measureable returns, ranging from lowered costs to increased production and efficiency. SSC designs courses to empower the participants to reach both environmental and fiscal goals.

Existing Course Modification

SSC reviews current training material and revises content to achieve the sustainability education objectives set by the client. Utilizing our subject knowledge and expertise, SSC modifies courses for a more impactful and applicable end result.
